

I can't believe how Puritanical the FCC is becoming! People now log complaints for every little thing. For instance, before the showing of Saving Private Ryan, there were disclaimers. If people don't like it, they can turn the channel. As for the sitll talked about Janet Jackson incident during a so-called family show called football? BIG DEAL. Like football is a family friendly sport? It's a violent bloodsport. I think the FCC has born again Christian run, just like the White House and the Bush administration thus heading this country into facism. Now it's the towel dropping episode of Desperate Housewives!!!!!! What next?
